

Development offers new chance

Stonegate is approved with 5,000 housing units to be built 15 miles from Reno's city center. What an opportunity to be progressive.

While there is much talk about increasing the lanes of Highway 395 to accommodate upcoming growth and more cars driving in from the north, how about being truly future-oriented and building a commuter train from Cold Springs to Reno? What if our leaders took this opportunity to create an environment which encouraged people to leave their cars at the train station, or better yet, ride their bikes to the station? Now that would be something to talk about.

Linda Collins, Reno